ON "TREASURES IN DARKNESS"

EXCERPT FROM "ON BEING HUMAN" – PART 2

Instead of being cast down, noble souls, in adversity, rise to new heights. How often too it is that some people never look up until they are flat on their backs; they never think of God until they are face to face with some disaster. A great deal of rust requires a sharp file. Many a person would never think upon the meaning of life unless sickness had detached him from a too great love of the foibles of this life. Afflictions do not necessarily come as lightning to an oak to wither and to scar; rather they come like the repeated blows of the sculptor on a block of marble until the hidden form within is revealed. When the hidden Hand of the Divine Sculptor is felt, then no blow is hard. Nor can the believer ever despair in his adversity and say, "What does God know about suffering?" God answered that question by becoming man and bearing grief for us, and with us and bearing grief like us. Having cleared the way through the forest of purposeless living, He made it easy to follow in His footsteps.

Treasures lie hidden in darkness. Only those who walk in the night ever see the stars. More men discover their souls in darkness than they do in light. This is not to invite darkness; it is only to be reminded that darkness need not go to waste when it is thrust upon us. When Paul was stoned at Lystra, there was a young man looking on, wondering why anyone who was so tortured for his faith should ever be so tranquil and peaceful. The youth carried the memory of that stoning with him, and later on became the friend of Paul, and his companion in his trials and stonings.

FORMED

Documentary of The Week: A Time to Revive

Our world is deeply troubled: wars, terrorism, political and social unrest, family breakdown, mass migrations, moral confusion, and chaos. Featuring commentary and insights by Cardinal Raymond Burke and Bishop Mark Davies, and appealing to proven methods from the Church's history, this film sets forth a powerful blueprint for revival in the Catholic Church, and thus a renewal in families, communities, and the world. It focuses on five key areas to drive this renewal: Catechesis, Liturgy, the Gospel of Life, Sanctity, and Mission.
